

Your financial provisions shortfall:

What standard of living do you want for yourself and your family after you retire, if you are unable to work, or in the event of premature death?

This graph shows that pillar 1 and 2 benefits alone are not enough to cover 100% of middle and high incomes: the higher your income, the bigger the shortfall in your financial provisions and the greater the need for optional cover.

The government is keen to encourage individual financial planning, an area it views as extremely important, and therefore actively supports these arrangements via various tax incentives.

 How can you reduce your tax payments while also enhancing your financial cover?

The state will contribute too.

The government contributes an average of 30 centimes for every franc invested in pillar 3a provisions.
